IF YOU LIVE FOR IT, WE’LL HELP YOU PLAN FOR IT.

We’re here to help you do the things that matter most, with the people who matter most. Now and years from now. Because when you’re in control of your money and start realizing your financial goals, planning looks less like planning and more like living. Spend your life living.

LET’S GET STARTED

We are committed to helping develop the pipeline of diverse talent through our support of the CFP Board Center for Financial Planning and the greater investment community.

Together we can work to build the next generation of investment professionals who will carry this great profession forward.

When the CFP Board Center for Financial Planning convened our inaugural Diversity Summit in 2018, we were struck by the incredible passion of our speakers and guests and their drive to make the financial planning profession more inclusive. The ideas generated and commitments made by firms, academic institutions, partner organizations, and financial planning professionals at that summit presented a promising path toward greater workforce diversity and inclusion in financial planning.

Today we are taking the discussion to the next level with a focus on accountability. We will explore the steps taken to increase the financial planning profession’s racial and ethnic diversity since last year’s summit, including stakeholder efforts to implement the Center’s research-based recommendations in this area. We will showcase successful diversity and inclusion programs and identify critical lessons learned from a variety of firms, providing you with the tools to replicate or adapt these programs for your own needs. And we will feature an exciting lineup of dynamic speakers who will share their own personal stories and talk about their experiences making diversity and inclusion a priority in their work.

We are grateful to our Diversity Summit Signature Sponsors, Merrill Lynch and JP Morgan Chase; our Major Sponsors, Fiserv and Prudential; Center’s Lead Founding Sponsor, TD Ameritrade Institutional; and Center Founding Sponsors, Northwestern Mutual and the Charles Schwab Foundation, in partnership with Schwab Advisor Services. Their generous contributions make this landmark event possible. We also thank the distinguished members of the Diversity Summit Host Committee for helping to shape today’s agenda to ensure a meaningful and thought-provoking discussion.

We know that fostering and sustaining a diverse workforce is important to the financial planning profession’s long-term success: A more inclusive workforce will be better prepared to meet the increasingly diverse needs and shifting demographics of the people we serve. Together we must accelerate the pace of change, energizing and motivating each other to change the face of our profession for the benefit of the public.

Thank you for joining us for the 2019 Diversity Summit. We hope you leave inspired to act.

Maria Contreras-Sweet

Founder, Contreras-Sweet Companies
Former Administrator, Small Business Administration

Maria Contreras-Sweet was sworn in as the 24th Administrator of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) and as a member of President Obama’s Cabinet on April 7, 2014.

The SBA is charged with supporting America’s 28 million small businesses, which create a majority of U.S. jobs and employ half of our nation’s private-sector workforce. SBA oversees the world’s largest seed fund and the largest middle market fund of funds, as well as a $120 billion loan portfolio. It also directs the world’s largest business counseling network and one-quarter of the federal procurement activity to small businesses.

As a business leader, California state cabinet official and entrepreneur, Maria’s achievements in bringing efficiencies and modernization to large-scale organizations have earned her international acclaim. Her drive to bring SBA into the digital age, and expand into broader domestic and global markets, has yielded record results in lending and contracting for small businesses.

Maria started three businesses, including a community bank in downtown Los Angeles, focused on small and mid-size businesses, where she served as its executive chairwoman for seven years.

Prior, Maria served as the California Cabinet Secretary of the Business, Transportation and Housing Agency, where she oversaw 44,000 employees, a $14 billion budget, and 14 state departments, including the departments of Transportation, Highway Patrol, Housing, Financial Institutions, Corporations, Real Estate and Motor Vehicles. She also oversaw the creation of the Department of Managed Health Care and its Office of Patient Advocate. During the state’s energy crisis, she was asked to serve on the board of California’s electrical power grid, CA-ISO, and helped to stabilize the volatile energy market amid the state’s rolling blackouts.

At the age of 24, Maria served as a district manager for the U.S. Census Bureau, hiring and managing 700 employees. She was then recruited by Westinghouse and joined their commercial division’s 7-Up/RC Bottling Company, at the time the largest 7-UP bottler in the world, where she later became an equity partner. During her tenure, they posted double the national average sales and she helped lead California’s legislative negotiations for the creation of the Beverage Container Recycling and Litter Reduction Act.

Maria is a founding director of The California Endowment, a $3 billion foundation dedicated to improving the health status of Californians. She served on the boards of Blue Cross of California and numerous nonprofit organizations.

Maria sees entrepreneurship as a force that can change lives and lift whole communities around the world. Entrepreneurship helps people realize dreams and brings dignity to those who embrace its challenges.

Amy Philbrook

Head of Diversity and Inclusion, Fidelity Investments

Amy Philbrook is the head of diversity and inclusion for Fidelity Investments, a leading provider of investment management, retirement planning, portfolio guidance, brokerage, benefits outsourcing and other financial products and services to more than 26 million individuals, institutions and financial intermediaries.

Amy assumed her current position in 2017 and leads the effort to ensure that Fidelity is a workplace and service provider where everyone can fully be themselves. In her role, she is responsible for creating and attracting a more diverse workforce, tapping into the power of our differences to develop and retain talent, creating a culture of inclusion, and showcasing Fidelity’s reputation and brand as an inclusive employer and service provider.

Amy joined Fidelity in 1995 and has held a variety of positions throughout the firm, including in human resources, compliance, retirement investment services, marketing and sales, and quality assurance and risk management. Prior to joining Fidelity, she worked in human resources for Fish & Richardson P.C., an intellectual property and litigation firm.

Amy received a bachelor’s degree in Political Science and Government from Northeastern University. She also holds the FINRA Principal Series 7 and 24 licenses.
Robert Raben
President and Founder, The Raben Group

Robert Raben, and the roughly 70 people who have joined him in the unique public policy firm he created in 2002, works to drive public policy in a humane and sensible direction; to bring diversity and equity to the boardrooms, think tanks and corporations of America; to create a fair judiciary; and to influence legislation that will broaden civil rights, reform our criminal justice system, and improve education for all our children.

Nearly 30 years of professional experience as an attorney, senior Capitol Hill staffer and Assistant Attorney General have given Robert a nuanced understanding of both the legal subtleties and the political realities of the issues he handles. In addition, he brings an aggressively bipartisan approach to the firm, built during a highly respected legislative career that began on Rep. Barney Frank’s staff and concluded with House Judiciary Committee Chairman Henry Hyde’s endorsement of his Justice Department appointment.

Robert served as counsel to Rep. Frank, as well as Democratic counsel for two subcommittees of the House Judiciary Committee (Constitution; Courts and Intellectual Property).

In 1999, Robert’s reputation and effectiveness caught the attention of the White House, earning him an appointment as Principal Deputy Assistant Attorney General and, subsequently, Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legislative Affairs. After a unanimous confirmation vote by a Republican-controlled Senate, Robert was charged with overseeing Attorney General Janet Reno’s legislative initiatives and handling extensive congressional oversight of the department.

Since 2002 he has run The Raben Group. Robert serves on the boards of the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies, the Unidos Action Fund and former President Barack Obama’s My Brothers’ Keeper Alliance. Past board service includes the American Constitution Society, Alliance for Justice and the Iraqi Refugee Assistance Project.

He is a serial NGO entrepreneur, having formed the Hispanics for a Fair Judiciary, the Friends of the Museum of the American Latino, Green 2.0, Committee for a Fair Judiciary, the March on Washington Film Festival and the Pasos Graduation ceremony for Latino law students.

Robert is a native of Miami, and a graduate of the Wharton School of Business and the New York University Law School.
Damian Rivera

CEO, Association of Latino Professionals for America (ALPFA)

Damian Rivera has served as ALPFA’s CEO since September 2018. Prior to joining ALPFA, Damian was a Managing Director in Accenture’s Resources Utilities practice for 21 years; he started his career as a coder in the company’s Technology practice.

Most recently, Damian focused on customer care transformation work for utilities, including helping clients with strategically pivoting to digital capabilities as they look to improve customer engagement. Damian has performed digital transformation strategy and implementation, customer information system builds, utility customer analytics and customer care operations work. Through these engagements he worked on all project phases including strategy development, system implementation, business process definition and operations.

Damian holds a bachelor’s degree in Chemical and Biochemical Engineering from Rutgers University – College of Engineering and an MBA from Columbia University specializing in Social Entrepreneurship.

Damian’s focus on social entrepreneurship would come as no surprise to people who know him. In addition to his client roles, he served as Accenture’s Managing Director responsible for the North American Hispanic American Employee Resource Group ERG from 2011 – 2017. In this role he led the strategic direction of 16 ERGs across the U.S. engaging in internal career progression as well as local market activities focused on improving the community in which the ERG is based. Damian also served as the Office Diversity Advocate for Metro New York, which focuses on improving employee engagement across all of Accenture’s Metro New York-based resources. Damian also serves on the National Board of Directors of Per Scholas, whose mission is to “Break the cycle of poverty by providing technology education, access, training and job placement services for people in underserved communities.” Also, over the past year Damian has been volunteering as the Chief Digital Officer for ALPFA.

In 2018, Damian was listed in Latino Leaders Magazine as a member of their Top 101 Most Influential Latinos list.

In addition to his non-profit and diversity work, Damian is an angel investor having invested in tech start-ups with a social purpose mission.

Damian is married to his high school sweetheart, Idanis, and has two children, Damian Francisco, 17, and Ilanis, 15. When not working, Damian enjoys watching his son run track, and watching his daughter’s artistic talents in photography. Damian also enjoys triathlons, having completed the NYC Triathlon 10 years in a row, and completed a charity bike ride from Toronto to Niagara Falls.

Most recently, he was named to the Advisory Council for the Center for Financial Planning.
Kara Underwood
Managing Director, Head of Diversity & Inclusion, Morgan Stanley Wealth Management

Whether it’s numbers, people or fine-tuning a large organization, Kara Underwood has always loved puzzling out all the pieces and how they fit together as a whole.

Maybe it started with her love of Nancy Drew mysteries growing up. “I aspired to be an FBI agent,” she recalls. Instead, Underwood, a math major at the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, MA, chanced across a pamphlet for a financial services firm at the career center one day and, impressed by the variety of opportunities, applied for and got a position with Merrill Lynch's Private Client Development Program.

Math and mysteries notwithstanding, Underwood quickly discovered that she had a good read on people, their motivations and strengths, and how to help them develop their potential. It’s a skillset she has plied to great advantage at Morgan Stanley, whether it’s been developing and implementing a diversity strategy for the financial advisor ranks in Wealth Management or her current role as head of Field Talent Management.

Named a “Woman to Watch” by Investment News, Underwood says there’s no secret to what makes her good at her job. “There is a misconception that finance is all about the numbers. It’s really a relationship business” she says. A mother of two who earned her MBA from New York University by attending night classes while working fulltime, Underwood says she understands the struggle today to achieve more and just how hard it can be.
Lauryn Williams, CFP®
Founder of Worth Winning and Former Olympian

Lauryn Williams, CFP® is a 4-time Olympian, 3-time Olympic medalist and the first American woman to medal in both the Summer and Winter Olympic Games. While pursuing professional sports, Lauryn interacted with not one but two financial advisors that didn’t provide the services she needed. She asked friends what they were doing about their finances and the answers were vague and unsettling. Constantly looking for ways to make a difference in the lives of others she decided to put her finance degree and MBA to use to fill the gap for young professionals. Eager to learn everything she then pursued the CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ certification. Her company, Worth Winning, offers virtual services to help young professionals get the answers to the financial question that matter most to them. Whether that is creating a budget, figuring out a plan for paying off student loans, setting goals for savings, or understanding your 401(k), Worth Winning is ready to help with all things personal finance.

Morgan Stanley

Diversity Creates Change

At Morgan Stanley, a diverse, dynamic and inclusive culture underlies the success of our company. It widens our perspective, helps our employees achieve their professional objectives and allows us to better serve our clients.

We are proud to support the CFP Board Center for Financial Planning 2019 Diversity Summit

To learn more about Morgan Stanley’s Diversity programs and our career opportunities visit ms.com/diversity.
The mission of CFP Board’s Center For Financial Planning is to create a more diverse and sustainable financial planning profession. As part of its pursuit of this goal, the Center has developed a wide range of diversity-related initiatives, including:

Publishing Making More Room for Women in the Financial Planning Profession, a groundbreaking report that identifies barriers for women in the profession and how to address them.

Publishing Why Diversity Matters: How Workforce Diversity and Inclusion Accelerate Business Success in Financial Services, a literature review demonstrating how greater diversity at all levels can help any organization align more closely with its customer base, recruit and retain top talent, and vastly improve the business decision-making process.

Publishing Racial Diversity in Financial Planning: Where We Are and Where We Must Go, a thought leadership paper that outlines research-based, actionable solutions for key stakeholders to create a more diverse and inclusive profession.
Hosting Diversity Summits to engage and hold stakeholders accountable for advancing diversity, equity and inclusion, by showcasing case studies and best practices for hiring, developing and retaining diverse CFP® professionals.

Launching the “I am a CFP® Pro” campaign to attract young, diverse talent into the profession by highlighting the many benefits of a career in financial planning and dispelling common misperceptions through “day-in-the-life” videos and stories shared on social media.

Providing Scholarships to Underrepresented Populations that support qualified students with completing education requirements for CFP® certification. The Center currently manages four scholarship funds - The Deena Jo Heide-Diesslin Foundation Challenge Match Scholarship, and the Milton Stern Scholars Fund, the Envestnet Scholarship Fund and the Richard B. (Dick) Wagner Memorial Scholarship Fund, a joint effort with FPA.

Launching the CFP Board Mentor Program to connect aspiring CFP® professionals with experienced CFP® professional mentors to help guide them through the certification process. The program offers a variety of mentor-mentee matching options, including gender, race and ethnicity.

Raising Awareness of the Profession Among Women through engagement of over 500 WIN Advocates to educate women and girls about careers in financial planning.

The only way we are going to see more women enter this profession is if we do something about it and make ourselves seen! Through the WIN Advocate program, I have been able to promote the financial planning career path to women in my community. The program has also enabled me to mentor young women, including an aspiring CFP® professional who I hope to train and develop as an intern at my firm while she finishes her degree.
